

Protect Your Investment

You protect your household electronics with surge protection equipment.
Why leave your expensive air conditioning equipment unprotected?

Brownouts and surges can strike without warning and damage high-dollar air conditioning units, leaving you without cooling and needing a service visit. Protect your valuable equipment with the Compressor Defender™. The device takes the hit so the components in the unit are not damaged. This all-in-one device protects air conditioners from a variety of power disturbance events that can affect the performance of your equipment, including brownouts, surges, and short cycling.
